Jacob, Daniel Stroud Honored At Ceremony

NEARLY 100 people gathered yesterday in the Dansbury Cemetery on Lower Main St., Stroudsburg, to honor Jacob and Daniel Stroud, the founders of Stroudsburg.

Montgomery F. Crowe, acting as master of ceremonies, introduced Dr. LeRoy J. Koehler, president of East Stroudsburg State College and main speaker of the program.

Dr. Koehler gave a brief talk on the life of Daniel Stroud beginning with his selection, at an early age, by his father to be trained to carry out the vision of his father to make the area into a town.

"Daniel was first trained in the classics and then on to higher education, serving a training period in law offices in Easton," Koehler said.

"Jacob Stroud realizing that his years were numbered called for the return of Daniel to Stroudsburg, from his law practice in Easton, to manage the town's affairs. Daniel returned and made his residence in what is now called the Community House or Old Stroud Mansion, at the corner of Ninth and Main Streets.

"Daniel, from his early training, realized the great possibilities of the area, had the land surveyed and laid out as a town. In the plans were land grants for churches and schools and trees to be planted on both sides of the proposed streets.

"Daniel also realized that transportation and business would change as time went by and made the main street of the town wide enough to handle any future changes."

Other speakers at the ceremonies were Dr. Robert Brown, retired superintendent of Stroudsburg schools and local historian, Edward Doran, chief burgess of Stroudsburg and Jesse Flory, chief burgess of East Stroudsburg.

Dr. Brown spoke of the early history of the Stroud family and Jacob Stroud—his early life as an orphan and how he rose to the man he became.

Burgesses Flory and Doran gave short talks, both talks paralleled the same thought—

Ike To Send Message To Legislators

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower returned to Washington Sunday night after a month at the summer White House at Newport, R.I., prepared to send Congress a special message of undisclosed nature.

Congress reconvenes Monday. It had adjourned for the political conventions.

The message will deal with unspecified legislation which the President has described as "in the public interest."

Press secretary James C. Hagerty, asked by reporters at the airport if there was anything new on the message, shook his head. He said he would not know until Monday what time the message would be available.

Senate Meets Today

Only the Senate is to meet Monday to act on a number of bills previously passed by the House which plans to reconvene a week later.

Well-known by the coastal sun, the President returned with Mrs. Eisenhower, their son, John and his wife and their four children. The presidential plane, a four-engineered Military Air Transport Service jet, made the flight from Quonset, R.I., in 57 minutes, landing at nearby Andrews Air Force Base in Maryland at 6:03 p.m.

HARRISBURG (AP)—Chairman George N. Wade of the Senate Highways Committee Sunday night endorsed growing demands for installation of medical barriers along the entire length of the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

of the twin boroughs should be thankful for the foresight the Strouds had for the land they settled.

Flory said, "The three things we should be most thankful for are: the planning which formed the foundation for the boroughs; being able to take advantage of the foundation; and using foresight in our undertakings in the business of the boroughs."

The rift between the U.N. Commission president this month, deferred the meeting from 8 p.m. to Monday noon. The Congolese delegation will reach New York Monday morning.

The delegation consists of Vice Premier Antoine Gizenga; Foreign Minister Justin Bomboko; Justice Minister Rene Mwamba; Impolpo Maurice, minister for youth and sport, and the minister delegate to the U.N., Thomas Kanza.

The group is coming from Leopoldville by way of Accra and London with a member of the Ghana U.N. delegation, Kenneth K.S. Daddie.

Congolese Premier Patrice Lumumba has been in Accra.

Four countries on the Council meanwhile were reported working on a resolution aimed at clearing the way for peaceful entry of U.N. troops into Katanga.

New Drafts

Diplomatic sources said Argentina, Ceylon, Ecuador and Tunisia were drafting it in advance of the Council meeting.

They said they expected Ceylon and Tunisia would introduce the proposal if wording could be worked out acceptable to African countries backing Lumumba's demand that the U.N. units move into Katanga immediately.

Tentative form, the resolution was said to affirm that the 12,000-man U.N. force in the Congo "will not be a party to, or in any way intervene in, internal conflicts."

This would be calculated to assure Tshombe the U. N. force would not be used to bring Katanga under Lumumba's authority in a strongly centralized Congo.

If followed through, it would leave the question of a centralized or federated Congo to be worked out between Tshombe and Lumumba without U.N. pressure on either side.

Refute Lumumba

LEOPOLDVILLE, the Congo, (AP)—Five hundred members of the Jabako youth organization of President Joseph Kasavubu's Abako political party, voted no confidence in Premier Patrice Lumumba Sunday. They demanded the U.N. decision not to send a task force to Katanga at this time.

The meeting was held after a small group of Lumumba supporters demonstrated in the capital, demanding the use of Guinean and Ghanaian troops to invade Katanga Province.

The Lumumba group also demanded that the United Nations take action to expel Belgian troops and occupy Katanga Province within 24 hours.

A member of the Jabako secretariat said the youth organization is in agreement with Moise Tshombe on the future structure of the Congo nation.

Firpo came to the United States in 1922 and the 6-foot-2, 215-pounder won nine straight bouts by mand and the Congo government appeared to widen.

U.N. Undersecretary Ralph J. Bunche, head of U.N. operations in the Congo, accused Congolese Vice Premier Antoine Gizenga of twisting the facts concerning the U.N. decision not to send a task force to Katanga at this time.

U.N. forces were called out after the demonstrators in trucks, cars and bicycles rode down the broad Boulevard Albert. They rolled to the swank residence of U.N. officials and demanded to see Bunche.

They screamed slogans outside the U.N. residence.

"Let him talk to us, after all he is an African," shouted their leader, Casimir Bagira.

When Bunche, an American Negro, failed to appear, the Congolese started screaming demands for Soviet troops and yelled, "Long live Khrushchev."

There was no immediate government reaction.

There was an unconfirmed report of an incident at one church while the pastoral letter was being read. This report said a group of youths forced the priest to stop reading the letter and closed the church. There were no reports of clashes and injuries.

Ban Not Broken

There is a usual ban on Sunday news programs and the city's radio stations had not broken the ban in the afternoon to make the pastoral letter known.

The pastoral letter followed a series of anti-Communist demonstrations in the city's churches in the past month.

In the past two weeks churchgoers have noticed that groups of youths, some armed with steel bars, would gather in front of the churches. Churchgoers complained these groups were organized by Communists to put an end to the anti-Communist demonstrations.

But the "gravest danger to the security of the Americas," it adds, "is to be found in the developing military relations between Cuba and the Soviet Union."

United Front

The note appeared to be a move by the United States to build support among the other American states for forming a united front to deal with developing Red threats against the hemisphere.

It came only nine days before the Aug. 16 opening of an emergency meeting of Western Hemisphere foreign ministers in San Jose, Costa Rica, to discuss extracontinental threats to hemispheric solidarity.

The peace committee, which works through the Organization of American States, will report directly to the foreign ministers. Its report presumably will include both the U.S. charges and earlier Cuban charges.

Other sections on the memorandum deal in detail with violations of human rights, suppression of freedom of the press, stifling of political opposition, Cuban intervention in the affairs of other hemisphere nations, and disregard and disrespect for the OAS.

Suspect Captured

PURCELL, Okla. (AP)—Officers Sunday night captured Richard Henry Dare, 27, wanted for questioning about the quadruple slaying in Oklahoma City. His estranged wife, her parents and a boy were slain.

He said the seized property will be paid for with 50-year bonds at two percent interest.

Sarcastic Reference

The money to pay for them, he added with sarcasm in his voice, will come from one-fourth of the value of all Cuban sugar bought by the United States in excess of three million tons yearly at a price of 5.4 cents a pound.

Thus, if the current U.S. sugar-buying policy continues, no money would go into the bond fund. The United States on July 6 cut 700,000 tons from Cuba's 1960 quota of 3,119,655 tons on which the Americans pay a premium.

Despite the order of his government to rest, Castro spoke for more than three hours, gesticulating and flailing his arms. He seemed exhausted at the end and threw an arm over Raul's shoulder. But he left the park unassisted.

The crowd gave a wild ovation to Castro, making his first public address since July 26, the birthday of his revolution.

The announcement of the expropriation touched off another big demonstration. The crowd belted revolutionary slogans and snaked through the streets, shouting "Cuba si (yes), Yankees no."

Most of the crowd were uniformed militiamen who had been ordered to attend.

Dictatorial Rule In Cuba Seen Rising

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States Sunday publicly warned the other American nations that Prime Minister Fidel Castro's Cuba is rapidly becoming a dictatorial state, ruled by Communists.

The charges are made in a massive, 78-page memorandum filed Aug. 2 with the Inter-American Peace Committee, and made public Sunday by the State Department.

The note—bluntest yet in troubled U.S.—Cuban relations—observes: "Not only is Cuba under its revolutionary government being transformed rapidly into a dictatorial political state, but a state in which the reins of political control are increasingly being concentrated in the hands of the Communist party."

But the "gravest danger to the security of the Americas," it adds, "is to be found in the developing military relations between Cuba and the Soviet Union."

Church Hits Rising Red Influence

HAVANA (AP)—Cuba's Roman Catholic Church Sunday assailed what it called increasing communism in the government of Prime Minister Fidel Castro.

A pastoral letter read in the churches of Havana expressed concern over "the increasing advance of communism in our country."

It said, "This point greatly preoccupies us because Catholicism and communism respond to two concepts of man and the world that are totally opposed to each other and that can never be reconciled."

There was no immediate government reaction.

There was an unconfirmed report of an incident at one church while the pastoral letter was being read. This report said a group of youths forced the priest to stop reading the letter and closed the church. There were no reports of clashes and injuries.

Duplicate Certificate

By William A. Doyle
Q. I have mislaid a stock certificate. How can I get a duplicate certificate?
A. Take a good, hard look for it. If you find it, you'll save yourself a lot of red tape and expense.
To replace a lost, stolen or destroyed stock certificate, you should:
Notify the company whose stock is involved in the loss. Request that transfer of the lost certificate be "stopped."
If the stock hasn't turned up in someone else's name, you must sign a "lost security affidavit."
If the certificate has turned up in someone else's name, you have real problems. You will have to establish your ownership. That may involve legal action in the courts.
And then comes the most expensive part. You must obtain an indemnity bond with unlimited liability from an acceptable surety company. That indemnity bond protects the company issuing the duplicate stock certificate in case the original certificate turns up later in the hands of a bona fide and legal purchaser.
Indemnity bonds can cost up to six percent or more of the market value of the security involved.

Willard C. Hartzell, 76, Portland Bank President

WILLARD Charles Hartzell, 76, Mt. Bethel farmer and president of the Portland National Bank, died yesterday morning in the Monroe County General Hospital, East Stroudsburg. He was ill for six months.

Mr. Hartzell was born Jan. 29, 1884 in Belvidere Corner, Pa., son of the late Preston and Emma Reagle Hartzell. He lived all his life in Mt. Bethel where he was engaged in farming. He was also widely known in Northampton and Monroe Counties as a cattle dealer.

Mr. Hartzell assisted in the reorganization of the Portland National Bank in 1932 and had been president of the bank since 1935.

An active member of Trinity United Church of Christ, Stone Church, he served formerly for 16 years on the consistency of the church. Mr. Hartzell was also a former school director in upper Mount Bethel Township.

Mrs. Serfass, Of Mt. Eaton

MRS. Emma Catherine Serfass, 80, widow of Stephen Serfass, died at 3:30 p. m. yesterday at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Esther Altomose of Mt. Eaton, with whom she resided.

Mrs. Serfass, who had resided with her daughter for 28 years, was a former resident of Gilbert. She had been ill for six years.

Born in North Weissport, Carbon County on Sept. 15, 1879, she was a daughter of the late Alfred and Christina Openhouse Scheirer. Her husband died in 1924.

Mrs. Serfass was a member of United Church of Christ, Gilbert and was also a member of Women's Guild of the church.

Surviving in addition to her daughter, Esther, are two sons, William, of Gilbert, and Floyd, of Kresgeville; also three sisters, Mary Stener, Bethlehem; Eva, wife of Daniel Moyer, of Ehlington; and Jennie, wife of Ralph Ziegenfuss, of Packerton.

Also two brothers, Walter Scheirer, of Palmerton, and Harry Scheirer, of Bethlehem; five grandchildren and two great grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held Friday at 2 p. m. at the D. A. Hunsicker Funeral Home, Brodheadsville. Burial will be in Gilbert Cemetery with Revs. Mark Michaels and Ray Klingman officiating.

Friends and relatives may call Thursday after 7 p. m. at the Hunsicker Funeral Home.

Buskirk Rites

FUNERAL services for Clinton Buskirk, 55, of Readers, were held Saturday at 2 p. m. at Gantzhorn's Funeral Home in Tannersville.

Interment was in the Readers Cemetery. Rev. Dr. Edward T. Horn officiated. Pallbearers were Walter Smith, Kermit Rinker, Avon Doll, Harold Doll, Harvey Possinger and James Franks.

Military services held after the grace services were conducted by the Tobyhanna Signal Depot.

He is survived by his wife, the former Mary Okel Hartzell, four daughters, Mrs. Earl S. Ott, of Mt. Bethel; Mrs. Earle W. Cook, Phillipsburg, N. J.; Mrs. Robert Czapoth, of Bethlehem, and Mrs. Arthur Stratton, at home.

Also one son, Charles, Bangor RD 2; two brothers, Clarence, Bangor RD 2; and Arch, of Mt. Bethel; one sister, Mrs. John Frutehey, Mt. Bethel; five grandchildren, and four great grandchildren.

Co. A Sweeps Honors At Annual Encampment

SPURRED by the fact that it received a superior rating in each phase of training on Friday, the only company in the 28th Division to earn such ratings, Company A, 1st BG, 109th Infantry, Monroe County National Guard unit started its second week of encampment at the Indiantown Gap Military Reservation yesterday.

Company A was one of the 11,000 troops that took part in the Governor's Day Review in Indiantown Gap on Saturday.

The program began at 10:45 a. m. with the adjutant's call, saw the arrival of Gov. Lawrence and the reviewing party, and had the Governor and the reviewing party inspect the troops in jeeps. John A. Brislin, of Stroudsburg RD, a member of the State Army Board, was on the reviewing stand.

CAPT. GERALD E. SHANLEY Jr. inspecting camouflage and concealment of the bivouac area.

Republicans To Canvass Township

ASSIGNMENTS were given to the ten people attending the coffee klatch at the van Hoeben's "Farm-on-the-Hill" last Friday.

From now until Aug. 20 workers will canvass Paradise Township for a 100 percent coverage of registered and non-registered voters.

Republican Committee man James van Hovenberg and Committee woman Mary Fontanella announced to residents of Paradise Township the following people will be calling on them within the next two weeks:

Mrs. Kenneth Banzhof, Mrs. David Blattner, Mrs. John Bowman, Paul Brenn, Mrs. Anthony Costa, Halstead Ellison, Mrs. Thomas H. Grainger, Jr., Mrs. George Hahn, Miss Ruth Henry, Miss June Heydt, Mrs. Wilson K. Huffman, Mrs. George Koerner, Mrs. Harry Niering, Mrs. Thomas Neyhart, Mrs. Lloyd Peak, Mrs. Ethel Wakefield and Donald Wenner.

The following hotels have agreed to appoint a representative within their hotel to inform their employees regarding registration: Crescent Lodge, Hawthorne Inn, Paradise Valley Lodge, Pocono Mountain Inn, Mount Airy Lodge, Pocono Gardens Lodge and Strickland's Mountain Inn.

There were presentations of the colors and awards, remarks by the Governor, and a review.

The troops amassed on a hill above the reviewing stand, then moved down onto the field itself. The 11,000 men of the division passed in review.

There was a luncheon for Gov. Lawrence after the ceremony at the Officers Club.

Units of the 28th Division have seen service in 11 wars and campaigns, including the Civil War, both World Wars, the French and Indian War and the Revolutionary War.

Omar N. Bradley, when he was a major general, commanded the 28th from June 1942 to February 1943.

Company A, Capt. Gerald Shanley, commanding officer, is the local unit of the 28th Infantry Division.

The governor, at the review, said he would like to see more people attending these reviews in the future.

The past week was spent in platoon testing—recoilless rifle firing and problems involving the 81MM mortar. This platoon is commanded by Lt. Gabriel Kolcun with Master Sgt. Robert Schoonover as platoon sergeant.

The rifle platoons have undergone squad tests, and three problems under simulated battle conditions. Using live ammunition for small arms firing and actual overhead artillery bursts, these two platoons excelled in a recent test.

The first platoon under command of Lt. G. Brodhead and Sgt. Jenkinson and the second rifle platoon under Master Sgt. Elwood Smith had Sergeants Storm, Rice, Tanner, Kresge, Chase, Safin, Nidlund to lead their men through these problems.

During the next week problems in company tactics, laying of mine fields, and demolition classes are scheduled. The unit returns home Saturday, Aug. 13.

Young People To Compete In Gardening

FINAL NOTICE to all junior gardeners wishing to enter the national and local garden contest was issued yesterday by Mrs. Elwood Grant, junior activities chairman of the Monroe County Garden Club.

Young people may enter by writing an essay on their garden project and enclosed a black and white snapshot of some phase of the project.

The yellow official entry blank, essay and snapshot are to be mailed to the Flower & Garden Foundation, Kansas City, Kan.

Each entry must also send a copy of the essay and snapshot to Mrs. Elwood Grant RD 3, East Stroudsburg, for the local judging.

All entries must be submitted to both places before Sept. 1. Names of the local winners will be announced at the Monroe County Garden Club's Fall Flower Show to be held Sept. 15 at the Monroe County YMCA.

Mrs. Pauline Peterson, Eugene McNamara and Frank Buser will judge the local essays.

Miss Shafer On Tour Of East Europe

ANNE E. Shafer, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Floyd W. Shafer, of Twin Hills in Stroudsburg, is one of 11 students taking a 45-day tour of Eastern Europe and the USSR.

She left July 21 for London. She is a graduate of Mt. Holyoke College, class of 1960.

The tour will take her to Stockholm, Finland, Leningrad, Kiev, Moscow, Warsaw and East and West Berlin. She will take an extension which goes to Yugoslavia.

The tour, number six of the Overseas Study program, is actually courses in the history and diplomatic policy of the USSR, taught enroute by Professor Govorchin of the University of Miami. The orientation course lasting a week is being given at the University of London.

There are two courses taught on the trip, each for two credit-hours with an additional credit-hour for each course if the extension is taken.

Woman Hurt In Assault; Men Fined

BANGOR — Two men were arrested here Friday night on disorderly conduct charges stemming from a fight in a parking lot on Murray St. between Broadway and Market Sts.

Arrested were Robert Lobb, 33, Bangor RD 2, and Albert Linderman, 35, Phillipsburg, N. J.

Police said Lobb assaulted Mrs. Esther Batchler, 29, of Brodheadville, after an argument. She was examined by Dr. Floyd Hess, then was taken to Easton Hospital in the Liberty Fire Co. ambulance. She was admitted for observation for a possible broken vertebra.

Lobb was taken to the office of Justice of the Peace Raymond Traves, where he pleaded guilty to a disorderly conduct charge and paid a $10 fine.

Burgess Quintus LaBar fined Linderman $10 on a similar count during a hearing at police headquarters. He reportedly interfered with the investigation being conducted by Patrolman Walter Heard, who acted as prosecutor in both cases.

Fire School Dates Set By Leaders

THE Monroe County Firemen's Assn. annual fire school is scheduled for Saturday and Sunday, Sept. 24 and 25 and will be held in Tobyhanna, hosted by the Coolbaugh Township Fire Co.

Chief James Oakley of the Tobyhanna Signal Depot Fire Department is director of the 1960 school, assisted by Chief Robert Phillips of Stroudsburg, Chief James Anthony of Delaware Water Gap, Chief Glenn Snyder of the West End Fire Co., Jay Snover, Joseph Eck, Harvey Burris, Marvin Abel, Richard MacDonald, Donald Snyder, Sanford Close, and Chief Ernest Bishop of the Pocono Mountain Fire Co., comprising the executive committee.

An expanded program of classes is planned this year with the approval of the Monroe County Fire Chiefs.

The program will include "Ladders and Hose Evolution, Structural Fires, Forcible Entry and Ventilation, Rescue and Mask, Problem Fires, Salvage, Forest Fires, Basic Hydraulics and Advanced Hydraulics."

Additional classes, new to the school this year, will be a Ladies Auxiliary class, a class for fire police and an ambulance course. Volunteer ambulance units whether affiliated with fire companies or not are urged and invited to attend.

Outside Companies

Although the MCFE, now conducting its Fourth Annual Fire School, was originally planned to instruct Monroe County fire companies, it has in the past invited outside fire companies, to attend and will do so again this year.

The finest accredited fire instructors available will conduct all classes, providing students with the latest up-to-date intelligence on all phases of fire fighting.

In addition to neighboring fire companies, the association this year invites area industries, institutions, resorts and interested organizations to enroll their fire-fighting personnel.

Further information and application forms can be had by contacting Chief Oakley or S. B. Close of Shawnee-On-Delaware. The next regular meeting of the MCFE will be on Thursday night at the Stroudsburg Fire House.

Carol Lee Awarded AAUW Aid Grant

MISS CAROL LEE, a 1960 graduate of Stroud Union High School, is the recipient of the grant-in-aid and the memorial to the late Mrs. H. Glen Sanborn III offered by the Stroudsburg branch of the American Association of University Women.

Carol is planning to major in mathematics at Muhlenberg College. This past year she placed first in Algebra II at the Monroe County Mathematics Tournament.

At Stroud Union High School Miss Lee was a member of the band, the Junior and Senior National Honor Society, the year book staff, in addition to being active in athletics such as the gym team, the Modern Dance Club and the Varsity "S."

The grant-in-aid has been established by the Stroudsburg branch of AAUW in 1960 to assist worthy girl students in furthering their education beyond high school. The grant will help defray expenses at the college of the girl's choice.

Award To Rotate

The grant will rotate among the four high schools of Monroe County in the following order: Stroud Union District, East Stroudsburg Area Joint District, Pocono Mountains District and Pleasant Valley Joint District.

The senior girl to receive the grant shall be selected by the principal or a committee from the faculty selected by the principal.

She shall have the following qualifications: The girl's scholastic rating must be in the top fifth of her class; preference shall be given to a girl who needs financial help; the girl shall have been accepted for admission to a four-year college which grants a B. A. or B. S. degree.

Book Fair

The funds for the grant are derived from the money raised through the annual AAUW Book Fair which has been held for the past two years on the porch of the Penn-Stroud Hotel. The amount of the grant will be determined each year by the Stroudsburg AAUW. The first grant, which is $75, will be sent to Muhlenberg College on Sept. 1.

This year an additional $25 is being given to Miss Lee as a memorial to Mrs. H. Glen Sanborn III, who was an active member of the Stroudsburg AAUW as long as she resided in the Stroudsburg area. Mrs. Sanborn was the current vice president and had been co-chairman of the Book Fair several years.

Straka On Committee

GEORGE J. Straka, 939 Chipperfield Drive, Stroudsburg, has been appointed a member of the National Convention Committee on National Security, National and Foreign Affairs to serve during the VFW National Convention in Detroit, Aug. 21-26.

Announcement of the appointment was made by Louis G. Feldman, Hazelton, national commander-in-chief of the VFW, who said:

"There is no question that during these trying times one of our most important committees is the Committee on National Security, National and Foreign Affairs. I am grateful that I am able to call on a man of the caliber of Straka to serve during our national convention in Detroit.

Three Local Persons Hurt In Accident

A TWO-CAR collision occurred at 4:30 p.m. Saturday at the intersection of Routes 502 and 307 in Fells Corners, Lackawanna County, injuring five people and demolishing both cars.

Ira M. Nagler, 49, of 216 Park Ave., Stroudsburg, Mrs. Mildred Nagler, 47 and Judith Nagler, 15, were traveling north on Rt. 307 when a car driven by Peter Roman Jr., 27, of 212 Hill St., Dunmore, hit the Nagler vehicle.

Roman was proceeding east on Rt. 507 and hit the Nagler car at the intersection with Rt. 307.

Mrs. Lucy Ann Roman, 23, was a passenger in the Roman car. All five were taken to the Hahnemann Hospital in Scranton by the Moscow Fire Department ambulance.

Ira Nagler suffered abrasions and lacerations of the right knee. Mrs. Nagler had a fractured left forearm and a fractured pelvis, and Judith Nagler had abrasions of the right ear and right leg.

The Roman car caught on fire after the accident, but no one was burned. Peter Roman had lacerations of the face and both legs, and Mrs. Roman had severe lacerations of the scalp and forehead.

Students On Penn State Dean's List

TWO MONROE Countians and two other students from the area achieved scholarship distinctions during the Spring semester at Penn State University.

Those named to the dean's lists include William H. Fahringer, of 44 Broad St., Stroudsburg, a senior in electrical engineering, with 3.79 average; Richard H. Bonser, RD 1, Saylorsburg, junior in engineering-science, 3.67 average; Robert D. Emrick, Blaine St., East Bangor, freshman in physics, 3.54; and Carroll A. Curtis, Newfoundland, senior in agricultural education, 4.00 average.

The 4.00 average is the highest number of points a student can obtain.

Fiscal Sanity

Almost two years ago, as Congress was wading through a rash of appropriation bills before winding up its 85th session, the members of both houses were warned against giving approval to huge expenditures of federal funds for desirable but wholly unnecessary programs and services.

Sen. Harry F. Byrd, Virginia Democrat, told his fellow congressmen: "Unless we change our course we are going to certain disaster in our fiscal economy."

By disaster he meant depression and worse. Congress in many respects heeded his warning, or at least did not pass many of the spending bills which Sen. Byrd opposed. Those it did approve contributed in no small measure to the inflationary spiral that was a major problem at the time and added immensely to the public's tax bill for years to come.

Inflation is not the great factor it was back in 1958, but the other threats to our way of life which Sen. Byrd warned against are still with us.

The veteran Democrat, a recognized authority on government finances, said in effect that the United States cannot survive, in its present democratic form, if our monetary system is destroyed, paralyzing our ability to produce and exchange goods.

Much has been said about America's position in relation to Russia in the production of missiles and the weapons of war. While our position has been strengthened greatly in the last few years, we wouldn't even be able to produce shoes if the monetary basis of our economy were to be destroyed.

Congress ends its convention recess today and will be faced with requests to push through measures calling for huge expenditures. Because this is election year, when a new president and most members of Congress will be named to office, the temptation will be great to pass every money bill that comes up for a vote.

Most legislators will reason that to vote against an appropriation will alienate a large bloc of voters somewhere.

With taxes mounting steadily, the opposite is likely to be true. Once the taxpayer realizes that high government expenditures can mean only higher and higher taxes, the axe will fall at the polls on those legislators who continuously press for unnecessary, even though desirable, programs that throw the economy out of line.

It's imperative that we restore economy. The present session of Congress can do just that.

'Nixon's Trying To Desert Benson's Sinking Ship!'

Opinions Of Other Editors

Political Farming

Few real farmers would attempt to make a crop by sowing this late in the season. But not so the politicians seeking a harvest of farm votes. Both party platforms generously scattered promises and both candidates are talking about the issue.

Vice-President Nixon has made it clear that he will not keep Secretary of Agriculture Benson and that he wants a "fresh approach" to farm problems. He proposes a "massive program which is not concerned with budgetary costs year by year."

This sounds like an effort to outpromise the Democrats but elsewhere Mr. Nixon speaks of the necessity of getting production in line with demand—which sounds like a basic reliance on the free market.

If his "massive program" will do this, some extra temporary cost might be justified. A final judgment will have to await a more complete spelling-out of their proposals by the two presidential candidates.

For instance, the Democratic platform plumps for limiting crop production by actual volume. This could be much more effective than acreage curbs.

But it is not clear that farmers will permit any such drastic controls—or what kind of bureaucracy would be required to enforce them.

Senator Kennedy so far has offered no detailed plans of his own for coping with surpluses encouraged by Democratic boosts in price supports.

His jibes at Mr. Nixon for "betrayal" of Mr. Benson and of a program of which he asserts the Vice-President was "co-author" come strangely from such a source.

For one thing the present farm program is not a Benson program—it is a composite, for which Congress must take the major responsibility.

For another, Senator Kennedy supported the Benson ideas before he started running for national office.

Americans should demand far more frankness and fairness on this issue—and more specific plans.

George Sokolsky Says . . .

Russian Gold

It would seem that Soviet Russia benefits from the ignorance of history and geography, the schools nowadays teaching the social sciences.

There are more than 1,000 years of Russian history that need to be known if we are to understand the Russian people. If we go into the story of the Scythians or the Uzbeks, we need even more history than that.

Thus when one writes about Russian gold—an immediate economic problem in the world today, he is not discussing something that is novel in 1960 or that started in 1917. Gold has had a unique place in the history of man.

No matter how taste has changed, gold has at least 6,000 years of history. Gold is rare; its color is attractive; it does not corrode or rust. Although Lenin ridiculed the value of gold, his government has always hoarded the metal.

C.H.V. Sutherland, in his book "Gold" estimates that during the past five centuries about 110,000,000 lbs. of gold has been taken from the Earth for the use of man.

This metal does not appear in quantities everywhere. Russia possesses three large areas that have produced gold in enormous quantities; the south Ural, the Lena fields and the Altai field.

Gold has always been found in what is now Russian territory, being exported into Persian, Greek and Byzantine civilizations. But it was in the 19th century that the Siberian fields were exploited to a degree that made Russia the principal gold producer of the world at that time.

Sutherland writes:

"... Alluvial gold from the Ural was generally of high purity . . . It made up the great bulk of Russian gold output down to the eighteenth century; for the years 1814 to 1839 the total yield has been put at over 175,000 lb., with an annual average of 5,000 lb. or more. At this point, however, a decline set in, either because the alluvial gold had its richest deposits removed or because attention was switched to new and very rich sources lying in the remote territory west of Lake Baikal in the valleys of the Altai Mountains.

"For here too there were numerous alluvial sites, the combined yield of which quickly surpassed that of the Ural region; 40,000 lb. were obtained in the decade 1830 to 1840, and the annual average rose thereafter very sharply to 13,000 lb. and, even higher, to 17,000 lb. . . ."

Today, we have no figures on the production of Russian gold. Sutherland estimates:

"... But the bulk of this massive annual quantity—a quantity, each year, which it would have taken Roman miners more than a hundred years to extract from their deposits in Spain—comes from five areas in particular. Australia supplies just under five per cent of the annual world total. From the United States there comes just over six per cent.

"Russian output is veiled behind the curtain that hides so much else, but is put around seven per cent. Canada furnishes over 15 per cent, and her figure may rise substantially with the discovery and exploitation of new goldfields in the Quebec region. And, finally, South Africa claims the astonishing figure of nearly 50 per cent. . . ."

Of the known figures, about 80 per cent of all gold mined comes from the British Commonwealth. But in all these figures there remains the dubious quantity from Russian territory. There are no reliable statistics but estimates are possible, particularly in view of the prior knowledge.

Now, we come to the serious political problem in the Cold War of the Russian plan to establish a gold rouble producing a coin in international commerce which can be harder money than the American dollar.

If you talk to an optimist on this subject, he will say that money is based on confidence and that whereas there is universal confidence in the American dollar, there is no confidence in the Russian rouble.

This is like the statement so often made by American businessmen—you no longer hear it—that Soviet Russia will never succeed as an industrial nation because the Russians lack the know-how. But when the Russians began to manufacture complicated machines, these same Americans fell over themselves, expressing their wonder.

So it is with gold. Suppose the Russians now flood world markets with gold roubles, the effect on our commerce, our productivity and our employment will be extremely severe.

Health Column

Inactive Heart

By Herman N. Bundesen, M.D.

The stress of daily living may not be so bad, after all, even for heart patients.

Rest, of course, is essential for any patient until the heart damage has been healed sufficiently.

After this, however, inactivity apparently serves no useful purpose and might even be harmful.

Many doctors feel that rest and inactivity for such patients do not prolong life. This is quite a departure from the advice most doctors have been handing out for years.

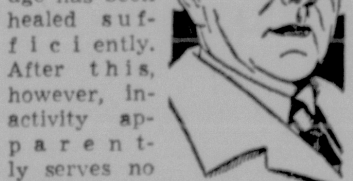

As a matter of fact, too much rest is likely to lead to physical and emotional incapacity.

An article in a recent edition of Circulation, the official journal of the American Heart Association, explains it this way:

If we are to rehabilitate heart patients properly, we must accept the philosophy that work is a normal part of living. Work is important for the physical and emotional well-being of the individual.

It's that simple.

Solving the physical problems of a cardiac patient is usually a great deal easier than solving the psychological ones.

Over-protective wives and children can be quite a handicap to husbands and fathers suffering heart ailments. Well-meaning but thoroughly misinformed friends, may also hinder the patient's recovery.

The boss may be a further hindrance.

Reluctant To Hire

There is a general reluctance on the part of industry to hire cardiac patients.

Not only is this bad for the individual patient, but it can prove bad for industry, too. After all, there are about 10,000,000 persons in this country suffering from various stages and forms of heart disease right now.

Since this number increases every year, it seems pretty obvious to me that industry cannot continue to ignore this group. Our national economy simply can't afford to keep such a large force idle indefinitely.

We have weeks to mark this illness and that illness. Maybe we should also have a "Get the heart patients back to work" week.

Mr. A. C.: Is there a possibility that cirrhosis due to alcoholism can be cured if the person stops drinking?

Answer: The damage to the liver already done usually cannot be fully repaired, but further damage may be prevented by stopping drinking.

Reports From Congress

Would Losers Cooperate?

By Congressional Quarterly

Washington — The heat of the coming Presidential campaign can't alter this cold fact: If Vice President Richard M. Nixon is elected in November, he will need the cooperation of Sens. John F. Kennedy and Lyndon B. Johnson next January.

Both of the Democratic nominees would be just about as certain to resume their seats in the Senate as that chamber is mathematically sure to remain under Democratic control in the 87th Congress. Kennedy's term would expire until 1965, while Johnson—favored by a special Texas law—will be reelected to the Senate in November whether he wins or loses the Vice Presidency.

In the event, would Kennedy, Johnson and the Democratic majority support or oppose a Nixon Administration? Judging by the records of the nominees and the party platforms on which they are run, which a majority in both parties, these would appear to be the major probabilities:

• Foreign Policy—Substantial cooperation in seeking new initiatives, such as long-term programs of economic aid. A pointed cue was Nixon's statement, in his acceptance speech, that "it may be just as essential to the national interest to build a dam in India as in California." This has been a Kennedy argument for some time.

• Defense Policy—Essential agreement on the need for increased expenditures and further reorganization of the armed forces—to strengthen deterrents to all-out and local war.

• Trade Policy—Continuing support for a liberal trade policy, with heavy emphasis on expanding exports, rather than curbing imports, to meet the payments deficit.

• Monetary Policy—Potential conflict over Federal Reserve and Treasury policies affecting interest rates and the supply of credit. But there's little that Congress can do in this area, either to obstruct the President or to force him to a different course.

• Taxes—Almost certain conflict over the general character, not to mention details, of impending tax revision, waged in the context of competing ideas about how best to stimulate economic growth. Since the general tax level can't be cut, it's all a question of shifting the relative burdens of various income groups. Democrats still champion the consumer, Republicans the investor.

• Farm Policy—No prediction possible. Despite their records of utter disagreement on price supports and other measures—reiterated in their 1960 platforms—the two parties show increasing signs of weariness with the old slogans. A truly "new" farm program on which a majority in both parties can agree may be a long way off, but no one is happy with the current deadlock.

• Civil Rights—Nixon would have the support of Kennedy. If not Johnson, in carrying out the GOP civil rights plank. But whether the four members of the "world; a most exclusive club"—Sens. Kennedy and Johnson, and ex-Sens. Nixon and Henry Cabot Lodge—would agree to strip their colleagues of the power to filibuster is another matter.

The Allen-Scott Report

Latin American Aid

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott

Washington — Vice President Nixon's thorniest problem since becoming the Republican presidential nominee has been the Administration's economic aid program for Latin America.

This politically-charged issue, both at home and abroad, graphically illustrates the backstage complexities facing the GOP standard bearer on major policy decisions.

As the Administration's candidate, he is directly involved in these controversial decisions. He has to defend and support them, with his vote in the event of a Senate tie. At the same time, he does not have the final voice in making these decisions, and has to tread a wary course in the White House deliberations on them.

That's why the Latin American economic aid program has been such a tough problem for Nixon.

For behind this recommendation that President Eisenhower is making to the resumed session of Congress is a wide variance of view among three influential groups in his inner councils:

Secretary Christian Herter and his State Department advisers, who strongly favor asking $500 million for this purpose. They contend a comprehensive specific proposal is particularly urgent before the convening of the American foreign ministers conference in San Jose, Costa Rica, next week.

Treasury Secretary Robert Anderson and Budget Director Maurice Stans; militant champions of a balanced budget, who are vigorously opposed to seeking any new foreign aid funds at this time. Instead, they advocate a general authorization bill that would permit loans and other assistance for Latin America but provide no immediate money for this.

Economy-minded Republican leaders of Congress, who balked at going even this far. Bluntly warning of a "Bipartisan revolt against more foreign aid spending," they urged merely a joint resolution endorsing the principle of helping friendly Latin American countries.

Foremost among those favoring this are Senators Styles Bridges, N.H., chairman of the Republican Policy Committee; Karl Mundt, S.D.; Andrew Schoepfel, Kansas, all up for election this year; and Representatives John Taber, N.Y., long-time ranking Republican member of the House Appropriations Committee; H. R. Gross, Iowa, and Clare Hoffman, Mich., veteran battlers for economizing.

They claim potent support from such leading Democratic foes of large-scale foreign spending as Representatives Clarence Cannon, Mt., chairman of the House Appropriations Committee; Otto Passman, La., head of the Appropriations subcommittee in charge of the foreign aid bill; and Senator Harry Byrd, Va.

A point stressed by Vice President Nixon, in the White House discussions, is that specific Democratic proposals are certain.

Both Senators John Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson favor that. They have already talked this over with Senator Carl Hayden, Ariz., chairman of the Appropriations Committee, who goes along with them on seeking a large fund for economic aid for Latin America.

Diplomatic Corps — In the course of the next 12 months, at least 10 new foreign embassies will be opened in Washington from newly-independent African countries. They include Ghana, Cameroon, Togo, the Federation of Mali, Malagasy, Dahomey, Upper Volta, Niger, the Republic of Chad, and the Congo.

The Prime Minister of Malaya has accepted an invitation to visit Washington in October, just before the presidential election, which he is eager to witness. His name is Tunku Abdul Rahman Putra Al Haj.

The Pennsylvania Story

Teen Car Curbs

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg — Pennsylvania's teen age automobile drivers may be slated for the curfew bell—or at least that is the way the ball will bounce if one Pennsylvania legislative leader has his way.

The subject probably will turn out to be one of the "hot issues" of the 1961 legislative session if the lawmaker in question has his way—and Rep. Albert W. Johnson, of McKean County, Republican floor leader in the House of Representatives, insists he will see to it that legislation curbing the driving activities of Pennsylvania's teen agers is introduced.

The restrictive legislation would be patterned after the "curfew program" in effect in neighboring New York State—and with which Johnson himself is somewhat familiar inasmuch as his native McKean County adjoins the New York State line.

In New York, full-blown operators licenses are not issued to teen agers as they are in Pennsylvania. New York State issues junior operators licenses (since 1925)—but this year some interesting amendments to the Empire State program were enacted by the New York State Legislature.

Parental consent now is required before a 16 or 17-year-old may obtain a junior operators license—and the license may be revoked if the parent or guardian who gave the consent in the first place, withdraws it.

Secondly, a holder of a junior license may not drive after dark unless accompanied by a parent or guardian (although "juniors" may drive after dark without supervision—to and from school only.)

(A full operators license may be issued to a minor who has reached age 17—if he has successfully completed a driver education course in school, approved by the state education department and the commissioner of motor vehicles of New York State.)

Interestingly perhaps, variations of this program were introduced last year in the Pennsylvania Legislature but languished on the legislative vine with any concerted drive or determined push missing.

The emphasis on highway safety in Pennsylvania during the current year is generally conceded to have changed the picture however. If Johnson goes through with his program—as he has quietly indicated he will in a letter to Republican lawmakers—the push next year unquestionably will be a full blooded affair.

An interesting "innovation" Johnson reportedly is toying with would make teen agers subject to the panel provisions of the Motor Vehicle Code—rather than at present literally permitting youthful violators to get off (comparatively speaking) "scott free."

The merits of such a program of course are debatable, but on the inescapable plus side of the ledger supporting such legislation is this commentary by a nationally known insurance company following a recent study of what it termed "teen age patterns":

"Nothing could be more tragic than the delusion that the problem of the small percentage of murderous young drivers obviates the larger problem presented by the vast number of young drivers, decent average Americans, whose tender years and lack of experience prevent them not only from operating an automobile safely, but from understanding safety as an adult understands it. Forty per cent of the nation's young drivers are involved in an accident in a given year."

Lawmaker Johnson unquestionably will have his hands full—in the evitable struggle between those who would rather dote on their children and those fighting the grim battle against keeping them from becoming a statistic!

Minor Parties

By Congressional Quarterly

The Jobless, Pewter Muggers, Know-Nothings, Bucktails and Poor Man's party are only a few of the minor parties that appeared in American politics. Try for four correct answers on this quiz about minor parties.

1. Q—Which former President was nominated on the Free Soil party ticket?

A—Martin Van Buren, who had been defeated by Harrison in 1840 and who had lost the Democratic nomination to Polk on the slavery issue in 1844, was nominated on the Free Soil ticket in 1848.

2. Q—Which minor party took its name from a remark made by a former President?

A—The Progressive party, organized in 1912 by followers of Theodore Roosevelt, was nicknamed the Bull Moose party from a remark made by Roosevelt when he arrived in Chicago to attend the Republican National Convention. When asked about his health, he replied, "I feel as fit as a bull moose."

3. Q—Which minor party has had the longest continuous series of Presidential candidates?

A—The National Prohibition party nominated candidates for every election from 1872 through 1956, although they never received a single electoral vote. The National Prohibition party was also the first to include a woman's suffrage plank in the platform.

4. Q—"Three Acres and a cow" was the slogan of the (a) Bucktails; (b) Populists; (c) Know-Nothings?

A—(b). The Populist, or People's party, was formed in 1891 around the nucleus of the Farmers' Alliance. They demanded the same privileges under the Government for the man who had three acres and a cow as for the man who had a large fortune.

5. Q—Which minor party has nominated the same candidates most often?

A—The Socialist party nominated Norman Thomas for the Presidency from 1928 through 1948. The party is not running a candidate in 1960, for the first time since 1900.

6. Q—In 1948 the Dixiecrats and the Progressive party nominated J. Strom Thurmond and Henry Wallace respectively for the Presidency. Who received more votes?

A—Thurmond received more popular votes (1,169,312 to Wallace's 1,157,063) and more electoral votes (39 to Wallace's none).

Blueberry Cream Cake Offered For Dessert

By Cecily Brownstone
AP Neustates Food Editor

The great American shortcake controversy runs on. Should the foundation of this fruit dessert be biscuit or cake?

Let those who will wage that culinary battle. One thing is certain: The blueberry has always done justice to both biscuit and cake.

One-time cooks, wise in country ways, made blueberry shortcake with biscuit. First the berries and sugar were brought to a quick boil and kept warm at the side of the stove. Next a rich dough was patted into a shallow oblong pan and baked until the outside was golden and crispy, the innards white and spongy.

The moment the biscuit came from the oven, deft hands cut it into generous squares, split each portion and slathered the soft insides with butter. Then the biscuit was put together again with ladlefuls of the warm berries, topped with more of the oozing purple fruit, and rushed to the table.

A big pitcher was passed, thick cream poured over, and eaters set to with spoons of generous size. This was a dessert to taste in lavish mouthfuls, to enjoy with gusto, to look forward to again and again!

Episcurean city cooks had their own way with blueberry shortcake. They baked meltingly tender sponge cake and filled layers of it with crushed berries and whipped cream.

These sophisticated cooks might choose French-style sponge cake, made with butter. Before the days of the electric mixer all members of the family probably lent a hand for its long, long beating. Nowadays a high-powered electric mixer will beat the

Just Between Us—

—By Bobby Westbrook

One of the things that I am grateful for this summer is the intervals of ordinary living that somehow put the highlights into perspective. Without them foreign travel is incredible—travel posters come to life with sound and color but still not really to be believed.

So a dentist appointment the day after the opera can be a very salutary thing. Rome has been a mecca for artists, poets, authors, and tourists for generations. But it is also a city where people live, work, play, have their teeth fixed and their hair done. That was the start of my problems. Shirley had an early morning appointment at the hairdressers and agreed to meet me at the dentist's at 12:30.

After all, I had caught the bus from the piazza at Vigna Clara before, and I've spent more time in Rome than in any other big city in the world so I should have been able to manage. But that was reckoning without the bus strike. Bus strikes in Rome are, I am sure, a little different than any kind of strike any other place in the world. In the first place, they are off-again, on-again affairs, apparently arranged to cause the least inconvenience possible and with the buses all running during the rush hour. In between, army trucks substitute as buses so that nobody really is much put out except the bus drivers, who, under these circumstances don't seem to have much chance of realizing their demands, whatever they are.

However, this one did cause me to change my plans. Linda and I were deep in planning up home for clothes for college this winter when Shirley called to say that the bus strike had been called for 12:15 which meant that the 12:30 bus from the piazza wouldn't be running and I had better catch the 12 o'clock bus from the Via Cassia in back of Vigna Clara. With ten minutes to go, I grabbed my pocket-book and lit out the back way. The bus was just pulling in so I hopped on, acting with thankfulness that I had just enough bus fare—about 6 cents.

But about six blocks down the road, the bus pulled in to Ponte Malvio, everybody got out—including ing, reluctantly, me after the driver said "C'est fini!" So it was, and me, too, without a lire to my name and two miles from the dentist's. So I walked. And if there's anything that makes you feel really at home in a city, it's to walk.

You thread your way through open air markets, cross the Ponte Malvio, an ancient bridge with one way traffic, except for the trolley car which goes both ways and leaves no room for another car and a pedestrian, too, which makes crossing it somewhat reminiscent of crossing the old Erie railroad bridge over the Delaware with a train coming.

You pass down the Via Flaminio and the back of Olympic Village with the Olympic flags all up and swarms of cleaning women and gardeners completing their last minute tasks, past blocks of modern apartment buildings with nurses out airing babies in those low-slung carriages of which Italians seem so fond, past older buildings with gateways opening into gardens, past stores and cafes with tables on the sidewalks, past crowds collected around a minor traffic accident enjoying the show put on by the respective drivers, past curb-stone gas stations in the most unlikely places, and garages in old carriage sheds.

I made it, too, a little out of breath but on the whole very satisfied with myself. When without any money and not speaking the language, you can feel at home in a foreign city alone on the street, you've come a long way. It would be even better if you'd stop to read the bus signs first.

The

Shopper

"the friendly store"
A.B. Wyckoff
STROUDSBURG, PA.

What do they like, our YOUNG customers? Or maybe I should say our VERY young, EXCEPTIONALLY young customers? Well, the other morning Florence Predmore's eight month old granddaughter, Debbie Herr, came shopping on her mother's arm, and she had big, excited eyes for everything—particularly the Christmas decorations that glint and gleam on a table in our center aisle.

Among those Christmas decorations are graceful sleighs of gilded wire, which can be used to hold tiny ornaments, or cards, or simply as the focal point of a mantel or table decoration; and ceramic candle holders in gay Christmas colors, with twisted red tapers and crystal lamp chimneys down which comes a ceramic Santa Claus. But the best of all, in Debbie's wide, dark eyes, was the Santa Claus with red felt suit, leather boots, a big stack of gifts and light-bulb eyes, that produces gay Christmas noises when you press a button. These Santas are operated by flashlight batteries, and cost only 3.98.

Like Debbie, most adults customers who see them are enchanted... and those who buy will, I'm sure, find their particular Santa to be the cutest thing about Christmas!

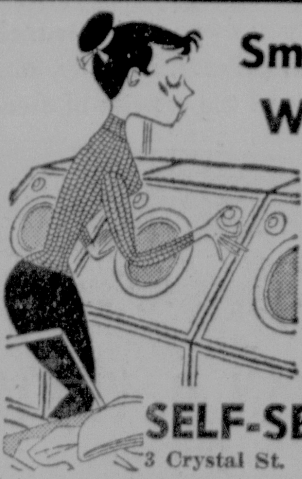

Eleven year old girls (like the Hirt twins) approve our interestingly woven Wyckoff pullovers with crew neck, so smart with slim skirts. And the teen agers love our new double-handled plastic "leather" handbags that are large enough to tote their lunches to school, and have two coin-decorated, concealed zippered pockets at the side to hold small things such as change, 3 hankies, lipstick and comb. The bags are 1.98, and the particular sweater I have in mind, is lush periwinkle blue, just 7.98... Girls of all sizes up to 14 also love the delightful dark cottons on our Wyckoff racks at the moment—adorable dresses perfect for trekking back to school. One of the sportiest is also one of the least expensive. It is a striped cotton in a choice of black and gray, or tones of brown, with roll-up sleeves, and a tailored collar. And it is just 3.98. I know—I bought one for my own daughter, and it's most becoming. What is more, it is made by the manufacturer of the ever-lovely Kate Greenaway dress, and has the same hidden pocket for which the more expensive dress line is famous... We have some attractive jumper dresses too. One is a synthetic wash fabric of tartan plaid that resembles fine wool, and is made with pearl button-trimmed bodice, full skirt, and slide-fastened self belt. This has a smart double breasted look, a white blouse, and is a most attractive buy at 8.98. Then, of course, there are the Pollyanna dresses by Love. One navy and white check, long torso style, with white collar, red sash and bow taken from the film, is the dress Pollyanna wore out of the department store after she and Aunt Polly went shopping. This too is 8.98... I might also remind Mothers (and our youthful Back to School shoppers) to keep their eyes on the clearance tables and racks. My daughter has been wearing a straight 14, but we discovered that a handsome cream and black wool skirt, marked down to 5.99, in a Pre-Teen 12, also fits her perfectly. So shop, and try, before you buy!

Buy six of the Springdale sheets now, during our Wyckoff White Sale, and receive a pair of monogrammed pillow cases for only 50c shipping charge. It's a delightful offer—so enjoy it! ## Plan Now For Cooler Weather

ACCORDING to Walter Stevens of Stroudsburg Furnace Company, West Main St. in Stroudsburg, time is drawing near when you should make sure that your heating plant is in good operating order and ready for the coming cooler seasons.

Stroudsburg Furnace Company specializes in cleaning, servicing and adjusting all types of heating plants. This is the time of the year when the so-called "gypsies" in the heating industry are coming into the area and selling their services of checking your furnace.

The best way to avoid buying unnecessary new parts and putting unneeded expense into your heating plant is to deal locally with the people whom you know and who have been in business for years in the area.

Stroudsburg Furnace Company are experts in the field of heating and air conditioning. Should your furnace require replacement, Stevens suggests a close look at the new Lennox Landmark All Season Air Conditioning system. This system conditions the air in your home for winter, fall, summer and spring operation.

Designed for 100 per cent comfort, The Landmark is made up of sections of the proper capacity to produce the heat, move it in the proper quantities and to distribute it to the highest efficiency.

Yetter Jr. and his family at Colorado Springs, Colo., at annual rally of National Wally Byam Caravan Club. Members comprise owners of AirStream trailers from all parts of world. Well over 1,000 trailers, their owners and family met at Colorado Springs for annual get-together. Next year's meet will be at Hershey, Pa. Yetter is Northeast Pennsylvania's sales representative for AirStream Travel Trailers. If you would like some first hand information on the thrills of "Caravaning" ... stop at Van D. Yetter's on Route 402 (7 Bridge Road) and see those world-wide accepted AirStream Trailers and learn how you can join next year's caravan. P.S.—Another local family at this year's meet was Mr. and Mrs. M. F. Weiss and their granddaughter of Brodheadsville.

Bud's Men's Shop Offers The Best In Your Needs

IN Stroudsburg, between seventh and eighth streets, there are two guys with all the answers to what the well dressed man is wearing. If you have any doubts — stop-in at Bud's Men's Shop, 760 Main Street, Stroudsburg, and see for yourself.

At Bud's you'll find Arrow Shirts to fit all tastes. Long sleeve or short sleeve dress and a wonderful, colorful assortment of sport shirts to make any man the envy of the golf course.

And how about those sport coat and slacks combinations, summer weight and handsome with the "fit that won't quit." Comfortable is more than an adjective when it comes to describing this apparel — it's a fact!

"Sleep-a-bility" is Bud's word for Plectway Pajamas. In the "Cool, Cool of the Evening" and you'll be there in a pair of these styled-packed PJ's. There just made for "first-nighters."

Attention Moms, . . . got any teenagers heading back to campus? See Stan or Bud — besides the above mentioned items there is underwear, socks, ties, belts, jewelry by Swank, etc., and it's all first-rate.

Be sure you stop-in at Bud's. Stan and Bud take real pride in making your extra steps up the street worth while. By selling you quality merchandise you can really depend on plus extra service that pleases.

When you think of men's clothing — think of Bud's Men's Shop, 760 Main Street, Stroudsburg.

Free Paint Originally A Mistake

IT MAKES sense for a manufacturer to give half his products away?

"Sure, it does — If he's doing it to make a point," says Robert Van Worp, Sr., who estimates his paint company has given away more than five million gallons of free paint, enamel and varnish by Jack Muehlan, who operates a Mary Carter franchise store at 5 South 6th St.

The free paint policy began as a mistake, according to Van Worp — a mistake that worked out so well he decided to keep right on making it! His first newspaper advertisement was supposed to read: "Get a free can of paint with every can you buy". At the end of the first day's business, he found he'd moved 1,600 cans of paint and had money in the till for 800!

Financially, it was a disastrous day for the budding paint maker, but Van Worp figured the volume he'd done was worth repeating on a regular basis. Since then, every quart or gallon of Mary Carter paint sold has been matched with another quart or gallon, free of extra cost.

Board Suspends License Of Trades Union Club

PENNSYLVANIA Liquor Control Board has suspended the license of the Easton Trades Union Club for 50 days effective Aug. 23.

One of the charges listed by the PLCB was "Failure to adhere to charter purposes and bylaws adding that its primary interest is sale of liquor and malt or brewed beverages."

The PLCB also charged, The club failed to charge and collect dues from members and persons were admitted to membership without written application and investigation."

Also, "The club neglected to hold regular meeting, failed to keep complete and truthful records, and failed to notify the PLCB of changes in officers." Among other charges placed by the board was "what the board described as 'unexplained cash shortage,' the falsification of the application for a club liquor license and failure to have a photostatic or certified copy of the charter on the premises."

In April of this year, five members of the club started legal action to remove George W. Wilson Jr. from the office of club secretary-treasurer. Their request is on the grounds of improper conduct of the office.

The five men, Ronald Roth, Stewart Seifert, John M. Jones, Lawrence Grecco and Anthony Elmiano, requested additional action seeking to restrain Wilson from retaining books, records and other business papers.

Your Horoscope Today

By FRANCIS DRAKE

Monday, August 8, 1960
March 21 to April 20 (Aries) — May have to reorganize your energy, add zest to your schedule to get a full program you like. Don't put off them here to rush. Keep a progressive, productive tempo.

April 21 to May 21 (Taurus) — Less stimulating day than you might think. Supply wants, initiative here and there. Be sufficiently aggressive but don't tire pointless. Remain calm.

May 22 to June 21 (Gemini) — Somewhat mild to start with but day increases in value as it advances. After sundown rays very favorable and stress benefits for mental tasks, research, science, the arts.

June 22 to July 22 (Cancer) — Your Moon and other aspects kind to your sector now. Apply your scientific talents where you will register is your favor. Home, family interests are honored.

July 23 to August 22 (Leo) — Your Sun on favorable side, many fresh advances in this fertile area. Don't rest things but get a proper start before others get there before you. Increase output generally.

August 23 to September 22 (Virgo) — Mild influences beginning of day but things pick up, whole atmosphere strenuous as planets proceed to strong, good position after sundown. Keep difficult tasks in order; don't worry.

September 23 to October 22 (Libra) — Not all your might desire, neither is it a troublesome period but watch carefully various angles, choose the best to work on. Difficult details, problems can be managed.

October 23 to November 22 (Scorpio) — Tighten your belt and keep

Also asked was a financial accounting of all transactions since May 1958 be presented to the court.

The five members further charged that Wilson "unlawfully usurped and assumed the rights and powers of secretary of the non-profit corporation and that he did seize and exercised exclusive possession of the books, records, assets and management of the business affairs."

"Failed to hold regular meeting of the board of governors and members as required; conducted affairs in a 'clandestine' manner; caused changes in the bylaws which the plaintiffs believed 'did not conform with stated methods,' failed neglected or refused to prepare financial statements."

The plaintiffs also charged Wilson with "calling a so called special meeting Nov. 1, 1959, where he purportedly received authorization to sell the corporation's real estate to the Lafayette Trust Company."

The reported price of the property was $50,000.

Returning To College

ROBERT W. Fruthe, 713 William St., Pen Argyl, will return to the Lafayette College campus this September as vice president of Sigma Nu fraternity. A senior majoring in mathematics, Fruthe is a 1957 graduate of Pen Argyl Area Joint High School. He is the son of Mrs. Helen M. Lobb.

L. A. Raps Titans In Pro Grid

LOS ANGELES (AP)—The Los Angeles Chargers, given a stunning start by Paul Lowe's 105-yard return of the opening kickoff, defeated the New York Titans 27-7 Saturday in the first local showing of the American Football League.

The exhibition drew a crowd of 27,778, a little smaller than expected.

Lowe, former Oregon State wingback, took the first kickoff five yards deep in his end zone, cut to the right behind strong blocking, then swung down the middle and broke clear about mid-field.

The Chargers scored again in the first period when Jack Kemp went 24 yards on a rollout option. Halfback Royce Womble took a pass from Kemp in the third and scored the third Los Angeles touchdown on a play that covered 11 yards.

New York finally scored in the fourth, when quarterback Dick Janssen ran six yards for the touchdown.

Birds Take Two

CLEVELAND (AP) — Milt Pappas gave up seven hits in pitching the Baltimore Orioles to a 9-2 victory over the Cleveland Indians Sunday. Five home runs had sparked the Orioles to an 8-6 decision in the first game of the double-header.

Jim Gentile drove in five runs with two homers and a single in the first game. Jackie Brandt, Gene Woodling and pitcher Jack Fisher also homered for the Orioles.

Brandt homered in the second game, which was delayed twice — for a total of an hour and eight minutes — by rain. The Orioles got a total of 30 hits in the two games.

Cards Rebound

ST. LOUIS (AP) — Ken Boyer's bases-loaded single in the seventh inning gave the St. Louis Cardinals a 4-2 victory in the nightcap Sunday and a split in a double-header with Cincinnati. The Reds took the first game 15-4 on a 21-hit bombardment.

The Cards trailed 2-1 going into the seventh frame of the second game when Ernie Broglio, who relieved starter Bob Gibson, hit a one-out double. Pinch-hitter Daryl Spencer and Alex Grammas walked to set the stage for Boyer's decisive hit. A third run scored on a wild pitch.

Muffett Gets Split

DETROIT (AP) — Billy Muffett blanked the Detroit Tigers on four hits in the second game of a double-header here Sunday.

hit safely three times himself and scored the only run of the game in Boston's 1-0 triumph. The Tigers won the opener 7-2, backing Jim Bunning's five-hit pitching with an 11-hit attack.

Braves Win 5-4

MILWAUKEE (AP) — The Milwaukee Braves built up a five-run lead and survived an eighth-inning uprising Sunday, edging the lowly but stubborn Chicago Cubs 5-4.

The Braves, struggling to keep alive in the National League pennant race, had to send in right-hander Ron Piche to preserve Warren Spahn's 12th victory.

Spahn coasted along with a five-hit shutout for seven innings, but was forced to retire in the eighth after the Cubs erupted for four runs, three on Frank Thomas' 17th homer.

Chisox Sweep

CHISOX (AP) — Ninth-inning heroics by Gene Freese and Minnie Minoso provided the Chicago White Sox with a double victory over Washington Sunday, 9-7 and 3-2.

Freese slammed a two-run homer in the ninth inning of the opener to snap a 7-7 tie, and Minoso's two-out, run-scoring single in the ninth inning of the second game broke a 2-2 deadlock.

Gerry Staley was the winning pitcher in both games. In gaining his 10th and 11th victories against five losses, Staley worked 3½ innings in the first game and relieved starter Bob Shaw in the ninth inning of the nightcap when Washington tied it on Reno Bertola's sacrifice fly.

Phils Lose Two

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Sandy Koufax struck out 11 batters and allowed only four hits as he pitched Los Angeles to a 2-1 victory in the second game of a Dodgers' double-header sweep Sunday over Philadelphia.

Los Angeles won the opener 8-7 in the ninth on John Roseboro's looping double down the left field foul line. It scored Tom Davis from second base.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special) — For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain — without surgery.

In case after case, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction (shrinkage) took place.

Most amazing of all—results were so thorough that sufferers made astounding statements like "Piles have ceased to be a problem!"

The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—discovery of a world-famous research institute. This substance is now available in suppository or ointment form under the name Preparation H.*

Friend Wins 12th

Pirates Sweep Two From Giants To Increase Lead

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The Pittsburgh Pirates whipped the San Francisco Giants 4-1 and 7-5 Sunday—the first game behind the seven-hit pitching of Bob Friend and the nightcap on a come-from-behind rally.

The Pirates copped the second game in the eighth inning on a squeeze bunt and an error.

Bill Mazeroski opened the frame with a single and went to second on a bunt by Eloy Face. Another bunt by Joe Christopher forced Face at second but put Mazeroski on third.

Then Dick Groat bunted, scoring Mazeroski and when Orlando Cepeda threw wild to first, Christopher came all the way home to give the Pirates a 7-5 win.

Face, the fourth Pirate hurler, got credit for his sixth victory against five defeats.

Fans Six

In the first game, Friend scattered seven hits, struck out six and walked two, in coasting to his 12th triumph of the year. He's lost eight.

The 29-year-old right-hander gave up his lone run in the seventh inning when Hobie Landrith bombed his first home run of the season.

Pocono Falls 55 Points Off Leader

POCONO Archery Assn. won three firsts at Bowmanstown Sunday but managed only 45 points and fell further off the Tri-County Conference pace set by Bowmanstown.

The home club tallied 85 points to increase its season output to 455 points. Pocono is second with 400 and Stratton last with 200 points.

Paul Daffey, Pocono, grabbed the feature event of the meet, the Expert AA division with a 387 score. John Clifton earned the Pocono's second first, with a 203 performance in the archer's class.

Clifton's score advanced him into the bowman division for future shoots.

Win Hill got the final win for the Pocono group. Her 217 points was the best showing in the ladies' bowman class.

Bago Wins Jr. Title At Kourse

BUTCH Bago of Stroudsburg piloted 18 points to win the Junior Modified division at the Pocono Kart Course yesterday.

Bago, 13, won three firsts in heats and the feature event to finish ahead of Tommy and Jim DeRenzi.

Tommy DeRenzi won two heats and was second in the feature.

Jordan Doyle, driving a twin-engineered Spitfire, broke the course lap record with a 29.9 clocking. Doyle, from Whitehouse, N.J., and Bago were co-holder of the old mark of 30.7.

Doyle won three heat races and the feature event and collected $25 for turning in the first sub-30 second clocking on the track.

Leconby Stops Strouds

YALE pitcher Bill Leconby blanked the Strouds on a one-hitter Sunday to give Bethlehem a 3-0 win in the final Blue Mountain League game.

Paul Lim's single in the seventh inning was the only hit off the tall left-hander, who fanned 10.

Tommy Barrow, the first of two Stroud pitchers was tagged with the loss. He was replaced in the third by Harold Jacobsen.

The winners accounted for six hits, including a solo homerun by Jack Serfass in the third inning.

The loss coupled with the Slater victory over Nazareth through the Strouds into a three-way tie for fourth place.

FREE FALL PERFORMER—Sky Diver begins his free fall phase of sport parachuting in slow fall position. In this position diver will descend at the rate of 125 m.p.h. At 2,200 feet, the diver opens his chute. In free fall jumpers practice turns, loops, rolls and baton passing.

Finale Next Sunday

West End Moves Closer To Pocono League Lead

WEST END swept a double-header from Barrett 20-0 and 10-1 Sunday, to move to within a half game of Pocono Mountain League leader Tannersville.

Kunkletown and Readers also won twin-bills to clinch playoff berths, while Saylorsburg downed Eastern Poconos twice 5-3 and 1-0 to move into a tie for seventh place.

Kunkletown slapped Analomink 9-0, and 4-1 and Readers trimmed Bushkill 5-1, and 1-0.

Rather than forfeit the game, league officials awarded the best of three series following the opening round.

A game between West End and Eastern Poconos, played on July 3, was officially awarded to West End 15-5. Eastern Poconos player-manager Bill Frederick ran into a light post in the eighth inning of the game and the club had no replacement for the outfielder.

West End by the score at the end of the eighth, 15-5. The belated win, coupled with Sunday's twin sweep, keeps the Gilbert club's hopes alive.

West End second baseman Francis Power was injured in the sixth inning of the second game with Barrett when B. Nese slid into second base and Beck fell on top of him.

Beck was taken to Palmerton Hospital where doctors say he may have a fractured leg.

The free fall phase is not a head over heels, uncontrolled tumble. Trained divers are in full control of their bodies and according to Grandis, who has made 144 jumps, "can do anything an airplane can but gain altitude."

By proper positioning of arms and legs, a free falling diver can turn, roll, loop and gain or decrease speed.

A diver in the "slow fall" position, which resembles a swimmer on his stomach, can make five types of turns, many of them by merely lifting a leg or arm.

To gain speed in the free fall, either the medium or full delta positions are used.

The medium delta basically resembles the slow fall position but the head and shoulders are bent slightly towards the ground.

To reach maximum speed, the diver uses the full delta, or headlong plunge. In this position, speeds of 214 mph have been recorded.

Baton Pass

One of the favorite tricks of the divers is passing a baton from one free falling jumper to another.

Triple passes, involving four jumpers, are the equivalent to a hole-in-one in one golf. The first triple pass by civilians was recorded in June 1939. A team of Army paratroopers completed a four-way pass this year, the first accomplished by American divers.

Sky divers undergo extensive training before they are allowed to make their first free fall jump.

Five static line jumps, in which the chute is opened by a line connected inside the aircraft, are required before the jumper can free fall.

Members of the Parachute Club of America must wear a main and reserve chute, boots, jump suit, helmet and goggles. All club members are insured, as long as they maintain amateur status.

"If the proper training and supervision are used," says Grandis, "sky diving is much safer than stock car racing."

Grandis cited the safety record of a Texas club with 300 members. The club made 2,000 jumps last year and the only injuries were three broken ankles.

A new chute that uses an explosive charge to open the chute at a pre-set height also adds to the safety of the sport.

Sky-divers usually jump in teams of three or four out it is not uncommon for groups of 11 divers to jump at intervals of 30 seconds.

In mass jumps the divers can fall almost abreast if the first jumpers to leave the aircraft use the slow fall position and the final divers use a full delta, until all jumpers are in line.

Canvas Targets

To aid jumpers in hitting their targets, large strips of white canvas are placed on the ground to designate the drop area.

Before the aircraft climbs to the drop height a test of wind conditions is made at the 2,200 foot opening altitude.

Paper streamers, 22-feet long and 10-feet wide and weighted at one end with coat hangers are tossed

So great has been the spread of sky diving in this country that for the first time a United States team is rated a threat in the coming World Parachute Jumping Championship at Sofia, Bulgaria.

The team was selected from 60 candidates at Fort Bragg, N. C., in April. Grandis, who is considered one of the top parachute judges in the country, helped select the team, which is headed by Loy Brydon, "the Mickey Mantle of Sky Diving."

In the International Jumping competition last year, Brydon finished second in a field representing 16 countries. It was the best finish ever made by an American in the event.

Women Jumpers

Two women will also represent the United States this year, one is Capt. Bobbie Gray, who finished 12th in the team trials.

In parachute competitions points are awarded for accuracy in hitting targets, form and execution of turns and other aerial maneuvers.

Grandis, who started the Pocono Skydivers in February, has completed several jumps at Hamilton's Airport in the past months. But heavy air traffic has restricted the jumping and the local club is searching for another jumping area.

In speaking of free fall, Grandis says the only unpleasantness is the noise of the air rushing by the helmet.

Even Pressure

"You can feel wind pressure on your body also," he says, "but it is not like sticking your hand out of a car traveling at high speed. In free fall the pressure is spread evenly over your body."

Expert jumpers, who know how to use the wind currents can travel as much as 200 yards off course in free fall, but they cannot get back to their original position.

"Most jumpers," says Grandis, "can move five yards in any direction and return to course easily."

Sky Diving Safer Than Stock Car Racing Says Pocono Jumper

by Curt Prins
Daily Record
Sports Editor

THERE are no diving boards at 8,500 feet.

But despite this handicap, "sky diving" or sport parachuting is gaining in popularity and has even found its way into the Poconos.

Sky diving, unlike conventional parachuting, depends on a period of "free fall" for its effectiveness.

The divers jump from aircraft at heights from 5,000 to 10,000 feet and within 10 seconds are falling at the rate of 125 mph. When the diver reaches 2,200 feet he pulls his rip cord and opens his chute.

An altimeter attached to a reserve chute in front of the diver keeps the chutists informed of his altitude.

Altitude Guessers

"But not all divers use altimeters," says Eddie Grandis, president of the Pocono Skydivers. "Some of the better jumpers can judge by the 'bowl' (horizon) when they reach 2,200 feet."

The Parachute Club of America, which oversees sky diving, requires that all chutes be opened above 2,200 feet, to insure adequate time for emergency procedures, if the main chute fails to open.

Dear Abby

Boost His Ego, Lady

Dear Abby: I have a problem that is putting gray hair in my head. I have been married 13 years. We have four children. My husband is a collector and is out of town a lot.

Last night he came home and told me he made a date with another woman, but he didn't keep it.

I asked him why he made the date and he said he just wanted to see if he could still get a date. It had been so long since he tried.

I feel terrible about this. How can I ever trust him again? Do you think he told me the whole truth?

GRAY HAIR

Dear Gray: Probably. The man who never says anything is the one you have to watch. Pump up your husband's self-confidence and he won't have to test his power as a Romeo. Every woman knows that all a man needs to get a date is a little time, the right place and some long green in his pocket (but don't tell him I said so).

Dear Abby: Why do people bother to come to church if they can't stay awake during the sermon? We are faithful church-goers and I have noticed several people who fall asleep regularly the minute they sit down in church. One man snores a little and it is a mystery to me why his wife doesn't give him a shove. Don't you think it is the duty of those sitting near people like that to wake them up?

CHURCH-GOER

Dear Geer: When people fall asleep in church, someone should wake up the preacher.

Dear Abby: My husband's brother, Duane, works and lives in a city 1,000 miles from here. Next month he is marrying a girl from there. We sent them a rather expensive present. We are people of modest means and cannot afford to make the trip for the wedding, but we are pitching in so that Duane's mother and father can fly there and back.

Duane knows all this. Last week we received a shower invitation ("Something for the kitchen, please") from the bride's friends. My husband really blew his top! He absolutely forbids me to send a gift, which I can understand. However, I don't want her people to think we are as ignorant as they are. What would you do, Abby?

ANNOYED

Dear Annoyed: If my husband "forbids" me to send a gift—that would settle it. It is poor taste to send a shower invitation to someone 1,000 miles away. But perhaps the bride's friends might have been thoughtfully trying to include the groom's family in on everything. Acknowledge the invitation with appreciation, best wishes — and regrets.

Confidential To "Don's Darling": You can be saved by the bell — the wedding bell — if you hurry.

If you want a personal reply from Abby, write to her in care of this paper and enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. She answers all letters.

Loiterer Human?

LONDON (AP) — A salesman, 42 years old, accused of loitering at a subway station stairway to peep up at women's legs argued if he was guilty of anything, then every British male had better be "very, very careful." Possibly, said the judge, but the fine is two pounds ($5.60), and "behave yourself in the future."

The Rock of Gibraltar has been a British possession since 1713.

Ross Common To Present Play 'Picnic'

RICHARD Turnall will star in the Ross Common Playhouse production of "Picnic" opening Tuesday night and running through Saturday. Curtain time is 8:40.

Turnall has been a member of the Ross Common company since its first season three years ago. He has demonstrated his versatility this year by playing roles from the old man in the musical "Kiss Me Kate" early in the season to the doctor in "Suddenly Last Summer" and directing "Gigi." He will play Hal Carter in "Picnic."

Turnall is busy on radio and TV in New York the rest of the year and may be seen on commercials for Eastern Airlines, Remington, Life Magazine, Armstrong Theater and others.

He has been in off-Broadway production in New York and is a veteran stock actor, having appeared at the Waukegan Playhouse in Indiana and Melody Circus in Wisconsin. He has also been a disc jockey, and last winter played the lead in "The Fourposter" for the Wilkes-Barre Little Theater.

Army Issues Draft Call

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Army yesterday issued a draft call for 9,000 men in October, 1,000 more than the previously announced quota for September. The new call brought to 2,556,930 the total number drafted or earmarked for induction since the resumption of Selective Service in September 1950.
